

Circumcision protest

'INTACTIVISTS'

August 08, 2018

By Brett M. Rhyne
Advocate staff

Harry Guiremand PHOTO: BRETT M. RHYNE/TJABOSTON – A group of 20 colorfully costumed people, including at least two sets of mothers and their children, demonstrated in front of the Old State House here to draw attention to the involuntary circumcision of male infants, calling the brit milah a “civil rights violation.”

The Aug. 3 demonstration by Bloodstained Men and Their Friends, a Davis, Calif.-based nonprofit organization, was part of a three-week, 21-city tour, which started in Wilmington, De...

An active account is required to view this article. Please login in below or click here to purchase an active subscription to continue.

Username

Password

Remember Me

Log In

Forgot Password